Why Women Swim Well.

The records of the humane societies on both sides of the Atlantic show that smack, smack like that when he's try- of late years a fair proportion of their medals fell to the lot of girls. There were several notable instances of resque from drowning last summer by girls under twenty years of age. Many women are accomplished swimmers. This is but natural. As their bones are generally lighter than those of men, and their flesh more buoyant, they have less difficulty to overcome in acquiring the art. Some of them could float at their first attempt if they could require the requisite faith in the power of the water to hold them up. Swimming is very much an art of faith, for it is generally the case that when a person believes sufficiently in the buoyancy of the water to trust to it his precious body, lo! he is a swimmer. There were young girls at Newport last summer who could float on the surface of the peean with no more difficulty than they experienced in lying upon a sefa. They could have floated for hours, is secessary. Some of the most famous swimming feats have been accomplished by very young women.

THE OUTER MAN.

Silk elastic garters, with gold buckles, are much worn by stylish young men. The four-in-hand scarf is rapidly regaining the ground it lost by the revival of the puff. White or gray knitted woolen mittens or gloves are quite fashionable for outdoor evening wear. The cape ulster is again to the fore. Tailors report a greater demand for it than even that of last winter.

Light check mufflers on dark grounds are coming into extensive use. White satin and silk grounds are still worn, but are not popular among jaunty dressers.

It is considered a great fad to have one's autograph molded on to a cane or umbrella handle in raised silver letters. Many well known New Yorkers are adopting the craze.

The white "vest edging," recently introduced, is finding a great many admirers. It serves a twofold purpose, being an ornament as well as a chest protector.

The fashion of having a crease ironed in the trousers, back and front, is falling into innocuous desuetude. Quite a num-ber of Fifth avenue swells, whose dictum sets the mode, have dropped the practice.

The latest thing in a watch chain is a series of metal tubes, strung along upon an almost invisible link chain in such a manner as to be easily adjusted into a penholder. One of the end tubes contains a pen, which appears upon pressure.

Among the Parisian exquisites it is considered an indication of good breeding to wear mismatched gloves. A pearl and a fawn color are the accepted contrasts, although other tints are selected, according to liking. Speculation is busy as to whether the fad will strike New York.—New York World.

NOVELTIES IN JEWELS.

A tiny swinging cupid is an attractive lessly, "with both feet." watch charm.

Frosted gold almond nuts are being worn as cuif buttons. Finger rings of blue enamel, set with pearls, show to advantage. Silver tablets are being used on auspicious occasions as menu cards.

English silverware, fluted in old fashioned shapes, is becoming stylish. Extremely odd as a queen chain pendant is a cunning little gold cake basket. Another novelty in jewelry is a green gold mushroom mounted as a scarfpin. Coral necklaces are seen with allegorical figures suspended by small gold

Two coils of rope skillfully twisted, with a diamond center, go to make up a new lace pin. Two neatly gloved hands, with braid-ings of rubies, are ingeniously constructed link buttons. The latest caprice in hair adornments is a correctly defined interrogation mark with a tortoise shell head. A miniature bunch of grapes, admira-bly counterfeited in colored pearls, is quite a unique scarf pin head. A bracelet composed of six strands has a deep fringe of gold thread strung with pearls, suspended from its center.

A black enameled circle, in the center which is a small bunch of white daisies, is a late addition to mourning brooches. -- Jewelers' Review.

STRANGE STORIES.

A Michigan man who had lost his wife kept his store closed till after the funeral order will be shipped to you at the earliest and then docked his clerks for lost time. A well known lawyer of San Diego, Cal., while in a barber's chair, turned suddenly to speak to a friend and a piece of his nose was sliced off.

A carpenter while demolishing a house at Black Point, N. Y., knocked down a wasp's nest. The nest fell on his neck and several of the wasps, which were benumbed with cold, went down his back. The heat of his body soon warmed the insects into life again. The remarks of the carpenter will not be given.

A novel wedding occurred on the boundary line between Virginia and West Virginia, near Doe Hill, the other day. The parties to be married belonged in West Virginia, and the minister, not The parties to be married belonged having a license to marry in that state, stood on the "borders of his land," while the contracting parties stood in West Virginia and were made man and wife in the presence of many witnesses.

THE FORTUNES OF SHOWMEN.

James A. Bailey is easily a million-aire, and his associate, Hutchinson, has about half that sum.

John Nathans and Lewis June, both former partners of Barnum, are worth about $150,000 apiece. Seth Haines, the former owner of the London Circus, has retired with $1,500,-000 to show for his work. Old John Robinson, of Cincinnati, now deceased, left about $800,000 which he had acquired in the same business. Adam Forepaugh is estimated as having a fortune of about $1,500,000, most of which is invested in Philadelphia real

P. T. Barnum is worth from $4,000,-000 to $6,000,000, half of which he has made out of his show ventures during the past fifteen years

VIRTUE TRIUMPHANT.

Case of Absent Mindedness in a Typewriter.

"Did you advertise for a typewriter and stenographer, sir?" It was a beautiful girl, with willowy form and clear blue eyes, who asked this question, and a pleasant smile swept across the face of old Jacob Dilworthy as he looked up from his desk and saw the lovely face and graceful figure of the applicant. It was stern necessity which compelled The demand for novel shapes in collars is growing. No less than ten new collars are now on the market and more are coming.

Gertrude Barrett to go forth into the world to make her own living. Reared in the lap of luxury, the adored child of wealthy parents, she had been suddenly left penniless and fatherless, with the care of a widowed mother on her young shoulders.

There were light hearts in the little Harlem home that night when she told her mother that she had secured the position. "He is wealthy and a widower, dear mother," said the young girl. "Did you not read the story in The Fireside of 'The Pretty Typewriter; or, How Clar-issa Louise Roe Married a Millionaire.' Who knows what the future may have in store for us?" And the young girl laid her blushing face on her mother's shoulder. "I will trust you," said the old lady, in tender, motherly accents, "to make the most of your opportuni-

The days and weeks sped swiftly on, and one night as Gertrude entered the humble cottage she slammed the door with the passionate intensity of a wounded heart.

"What is it, my darling?" cried her mother, as she folded her child in her

'Alas," said the sobbing girl, "I fear that he is getting away from me, and that all the terms of endearment which he has addressed to me during business hours mean absolutely nothing; but I will teach him that even if he is a millionaire he cannot tamper with the simple heart of a trusting typewriter."

"My precious one," murmured her mother, "I have long feared this, but now I see that you are onto him."

From that day the anxious and doting parent noticed a change in her only child. There was a look of determination in her eye that boded ill to the wealthy merchant who had trifled with her young affections. She went about her duties outwardly the same, and Jacob Dilworthy little dreamt of the punishment that was so soon to be meted out to him.

But Gertrude Barrett's hour of trimuph came one morning when the gray baired merchant came into his private office with ashy face and trembling limbs, and placing two letters before her demanded in grief stricken accents, "Miss Barrett, what does this mean?"

The first of the letters was as follows: "OFFICE OF HAIRSPRING,) "WINDER & CO.,

Rich and Poor,

Prince and Peasant, the Millionaire and Day Laborer, by their common use of this remedy, attest the world-wide reputation of Ayer's Pills. Leading physicians recommend these pills for Stomach and Liver Troubles, Costiveness, Biliousness, and Sick Headache; also, for Rheumatism, Jaundice, and Neuralgia. They are sugar-coated; contain no calemel; are prompt, but mild, in operation; and, therefore, the very best medicine for Family Use, as well as for Travelers and Tourists.

"I have derived great relief from Ayer's Pills. Five years ago I was taken so ill with that I was unable to do any work. I took three boxes of Ayer's Pills and was entirely cured. Since that time I am never without a box of these pills." Peter Christensen, Sherwood, Wis.

"Ayer's Pills have been in use in my family upwards of twenty years and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afford greater relief than any other medicine I ever tried."—T. F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for a number of years, and have never found any-thing equal to them for giving me an appetite and imparting energy and strength to the system. I always keep them in the house."—R. D. Jackson, Wilmington, Del.

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens die every year from Cholera. It is more fatal to chickens than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a remeay that positively cures it has been made, and to be convinced of its efficacy only requires a trial. A 50-cents bottle is enough for one hundred chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle, the buyer is not thoroughly satisfied with it as a cure for Chicken Cholera, return it to the undersigned and your money will be refunded.
